"I have always imagined that Paradise will be a kind of library."

~Jorge Luis Borges

Greetings all,

With exams and the holiday season, we are all rushed and busy. Take time to concentrate on the work in front of you while looking forward to relaxing and celebrating the holidays.

The Law Library & Technology Center will be open until 1:00AM nightly through December 19th. This allows students extended hours to study for exams. After exams finish, the library will go on shortened hours.

You will notice some changes. We've added comfortable seating in a few areas and new tables and chairs on the first floor. We are also putting new materials on the new book shelf cart behind the Reference Desk. There is also a link to such materials at <http://novacat.nova.edu/ftlist>.

Another change will be the departure of the salt water aquarium after exams finish. It has leaked once too often, causing extensive damage. I know everyone will miss it, but it is necessary to stop continuing water damage. The fish will be moved to a good home. In its place, we hope to have a faculty publications display case.

For December graduates, this issue contains a bibliography of materials about job hunting. For the February bar takers, old Florida bar exam essay questions can be found on the NSU Web site at <http://www.nsulaw.nova.edu/>. This site is password protected so you will need your NSU login and password to access the material.

After exams finish, have a wonderful holiday season!
